

THE EVENING STAR.

WASHINGTON, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1893.

CROSBY & NOYES, Editors.

THE EVENING STAR has a regular and permanent circulation in Washington and the surrounding territory, and is the only paper in the city which is published every day, except on Sundays and public holidays.

That there is urgent need of liberal appropriations by Congress to pay for sanitary work in the District, which cannot be accomplished without money, is generally recognized. But it is believed that the work of the sanitary commission is not being done as well as it should be.

The possibility of the appearance of cholera in this country and in this city during the coming summer made citizens to whom the organization was first suggested by THE STAR regard with great interest any plan which had for its object the improvement of the sanitary condition of the city; but it was thought that even if it proved that such precautions so far as cholera is concerned were unnecessary, the work proposed would not be useless, for it is believed that a thorough examination of the city, such as is intended, will result in bringing about sanitary reforms that will reduce to the minimum dangers to which the city is constantly exposed, the extent of which may be measured by the number of deaths reported weekly from diseases having their origin in the city.

The league organized last night has before it a broad field of local usefulness. Its purposes are agitation, inspection and instruction. With such advisors as Dr. Billings, the leading sanitary authority in the country at its service, the league ought not to go astray in its sanitary teachings. For the purpose of inspection a committee representing every section of the city has been formed and it is expected that soon the committee will be in existence, covering almost every square in Washington to have representation in the organization. These local committees will not only thoroughly inspect, and paint a vivid picture of the sanitary condition of all quarters of the city, but they will serve as the means of disseminating everywhere in the District the information which the league has gathered.

Local disturbances have been unimportant and news of a startling nature from the capital and to guard it as far as possible against all danger from epidemics, but if the league is successful in its work its methods will doubtless be followed in other places, and thus its labors will have a national as well as a local influence and importance. Every public spirited citizen should join the league and enter heartily into its spirit and into the labors of the city.

Friends of the city of Washington—the new Washington which is destined within a few years to be the educational, scientific, literary and artistic center of the western hemisphere—have been greatly encouraged by the forward movement of the new well-thought project to establish here a Protestant Episcopal cathedral with all the institutions of mercy and learning which would naturally cluster around such a prominent and magnetic institution. It must now be evident to even the least careful of observers that within but a brief period Washington will in every sense be the nation's capital as it is now its most beautiful city.

Edison is quoted as declaring that the man of the future will be able to do without sleep altogether. This implies the extinction of the policeman.

And while we are discussing sanitation and such things it is perfectly proper for the American people to look northward. Lieut. Fawcett starts toward the pole in June and he has declared that whatever lands he discovers and explores in Greenland will be claimed by him in the name of the United States government.

New York may eclipse Chicago's football record with a case of genuine bridgeage.

In view of the revelations made in this city yesterday afternoon it is not difficult to understand why the progressive people of America should be so much interested in the proposed pending action by the United States government upon their appeal for annexation. It was merely a question as to whether the revolution should be brought about by the queen and her new constitution or by those who under the terms of that extraordinary document would be deprived of participation in national affairs.

The proposed abolition of the elective house of nobles and the substitution thereof of a house whose members would be appointed by her majesty were a serious blow at the liberties of all the people, and when it is added to this arbitrary effort the abolition of the supreme court and the practical disfranchisement of every white male there is no longer room for surprise at the detestation of Queen Lilian for the abolition of the elective house of nobles and the petition of intelligent Hawaii for admission to the Union. That the commissioners who have journeyed hither from Honolulu will return reasonably well satisfied seems probable and that American interests will be supreme in the islands is tolerably certain.

tain. All in this spite of the fact that the government organ in Canada prays England to interfere, and not liberally because there is prospect of supremacy in control of Hawaiian affairs falling to the republic.

It will gladden the writers who love to minutely describe public men to note the strong individuality of Judge Jackson's whisker.

Within the United States the one topic has been the Hawaiian revolution and its probable effects. A commission representing the revolutionists arrived in this city last night and will endeavor to bring about the annexation of the islands by this government. In the political whirl there was little of importance save the passage by the Senate of the anti-option bill and the examination by the President of Howard E. Jackson of Tennessee to be an associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Hawaiian affairs have overshadowed all others during the past seven days. In the land over which King Kalakaua reigned there has been bloodshed of a temporary government which, it is generally understood, will be relieved by the United States, this nation having taken the step to annex the islands. Trouble was forced with England in case this government acceded to the request, but it has been officially stated that Great Britain will make no protest—no matter what the United States may do.

Local disturbances have been unimportant and news of a startling nature from the capital and to guard it as far as possible against all danger from epidemics, but if the league is successful in its work its methods will doubtless be followed in other places, and thus its labors will have a national as well as a local influence and importance. WOODWARD & LOTHROP, 317, 319 AND 321 N.W.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY SIXTH, AND ALL THE WEEK. EXHIBITION OF SPRING OF '93 PRINTED STUFFS—SILK, WOOL, COTTON.

The charm of Printed Stuff is, where does it lie, in the fabric, design or color? Unquestionably the charm exists, as is evidenced by their wonderful popularity, which promises to be greater than ever before.

NEW THINGS have been coming in for weeks past. All the old stand-bys and the richest and most varied assortment of novelty effects we ever had. Long rows of shelves and counters are piled high with the latest and choicest creations. France, England, Scotland, China, Japan, America have contributed their finest products to make up a stock which is believed, has no superior.

CHINE EFFECTS predominate, and again appear in harmony with flowers, damask stripes and plaids on light and dark grounds. PERBIAN STRIPES are next in line of favor with many others. Among the latter we find the TILLS, which have established their own reputation and will meet with a hearty welcome.

CHINE BROCADES—brilliant color effects, also come in for a share of the honors. JAVANESE is bewitching in its loveliness, the exquisite satin stripes lending beauty and grace to the soft chamois fabric—cream ground with golden and white satin stripes, printed in perhaps the richest art designs imaginable—bold and modest, floral and geometrical.
